Dabholkar murder case: 3 suspects remanded to 2-day police custody

Mumbai: The three persons, arrested in connection with the murder of Maharashtra rationalist Narendra Dabholkar, were remanded to two-day police custody on Wednesday. Ajinkya Surle (19), Shubham Surle (20) and Rohit Rege (23) were presented in front of a magistrate's court in Maharashtra's Aurangabad.

Aurangabad police on Wednesday had registered a case for illegal possession of weapons against the three under the Arms Act. "We will question them from where they got these weapons and what was the motive for acquiring them," an official said. Last week, the CBI arrested Aurangabad-based Sachin Andure, one of the two alleged gunmen who shot Dabholkar.

On Tuesday, the CBI conducted searches at the premises of Andure's brothers-in-law Ajinkya and Shubham Surle, and his friend Rohit Rege, and recovered a 7.65 mm pistol, three live cartridges, a sword and a chopper. The agency questioned them, and later filed a complaint about recovery of weapons with local police. Dabholkar, the founder of Maharashtra Andhashraddha Nirmoolan Samiti (MANS), was shot dead on August 20, 2013, by bike-borne assailants while returning home from a morning walk. The CBI had also arrested former Shiv Sena corporator Shrikant Pangarkar in connection with the killing of Dabholkar.

Indian Muslims much safer than Muslims in Islamic countries: This Saudi woman's reply is winning hearts viral. A Saudi woman's frank response on question-and-answer community platform Quora is going viral. Aisha Fahda, who defines herself as 'a Muslim girl living in Sweden', said that "Indian Muslims are much more safer than those Muslims living in the Islamic countries."

An anonymous Quoran asked, "Why don't Pakistan, Turkey and Saudi Arabia together attack India to save Indian Muslims?" The question has more than 100 responses, including few highly upvoted ones. But Fahda's response stood out. Here's a complete text of her response.

Q: "Why don't Pakistan, Turkey and Saudi Arabia together attack India to save Indian Muslims?" Aisha Fahda: I'm not an Indian but I can tell you for sure that Indian Muslims are much more safer than those Muslims living in the Islamic countries. Islamic countries follow the "Islamic Sharia Law" which is extremely totalitarian and completely against human rights. I am a Saudi woman and I have spent my entire childhood in Saudi Arabia. I have witnessed many public executions since I was only 6 years old. I saw a man being beheaded for leaving Islam (apostasy), I saw a thief whose left hand was being amputated as a punishment for stealing and I saw three gays being thrown from the rooftop of a tall building because homosexuality is a sin in Islam. All of these cruel acts happen because Islamic countries are governed by the Sharia law. Indians, on the other hand are governed by something known as the "Indian Constitution" which is full of human rights and gender equality. India is one of the best democracies in the entire world.

I have been currently living in Sweden since I was 22 years old. My boyfriend is an Indian and we both visited India last year. And believe me when I tell you this, Indians have a heart of gold and they are as secular as secular ever will be.

Baby died due to hospital negligence: Haryana Congress chief dismisses reports of newborn's death due to cycle rally

Rohtak: Dismissing all reports of newborn's death due to the ambulance being stuck in a political rally, Haryana Congress chief Ashok Tanwar on Thursday claimed that the incident took place due to hospital's negligence.

"I have video of his father where he stated it happened due to hospital's negligence. He was there for 12 hrs and didn't receive facilities. Was later referred to Civil Hospital and then to Rohtak," said Tanwar. "When our people came to know there's ambulance in traffic, they cleared the road. Government, local administration and police should take responsibility. There was no nurse, doctor or proper oxygen supply," he added.

On Tuesday, an ambulance carrying a two-day-old infant got stuck in Haryana's Sonapat due to a cycle rally being led by Tanwar.

Hospital staff claimed that the cycle rally caused a massive traffic jam that lasted for over 30 minutes. The baby, whose condition grew critical due to the delay, was referred to PGI Rohtak by doctors in Sonapat hospital. "We were referred to Sonapat and from there to Rohtak. He (baby) died en-route. Due to Congress rally, reached hospital late by 1.5 hrs. Tried meeting the CM but weren't allowed," said the uncle of the infant.
